

XX INFOCUS LATAM
Guadalajara, México.
November 17th to 19th, 2022

POSTERS

1. The deadline for receiving abstracts will be October 15th, 2022 at 11:59 PM.
2. The abstract will be submitted through the INFOCUS web site: <https://infocuslatam.org> or through the AMIMC site: <http://www.amimc.org.mx>. After the closing date for the reception of abstracts, no change in the text and/or data registered in the abstract will be accepted.
3. The author who submits the abstract is responsible for ensuring that all authors have read the abstract, assume responsibility for its content and approve that their names appear in it.
4. The author responsible for the presentation of the abstract will be considered the one who will be physically present during its presentation. The responsible author undertakes to present the abstract if it is accepted and to comply with the confidentiality and copyright regulations in force in the country.
5. The responsible author must be registered in the Congress.
6. The abstract must include: Title, author(s), Division or Department of affiliation, the Institution, City and Country of origin. It is essential to add the e-mail of the responsible author, since it will be essential for subsequent communication related to the abstract.

The categories are:

- Basic Mycology
- Diagnosis in the laboratory
- Pediatric fungal infections
- Dermatological mycology
- Endemic mycoses
- Opportunistic mycoses

7. The abstract must be less than 300 words, structured as follows: Introduction with objectives, methodology, results, and conclusions. Tables and graphs may not be included in the abstract.

8. It must be sent in Word format, Times New Roman font, size 12. It will be accepted in English or Spanish

9. Upon receipt of the abstract, the Evaluation Committee will send an e-mail confirming its receipt, within a maximum of 14 days. If you do not receive a response, you can request information to the INFOCUS 2022 e-mail: infocus2022mex@gmail.com

10. The abstract will be evaluated by the Evaluating Committee who will make the decision to accept those abstract that are novel and of sufficient quality to be presented at the Congress. Those of greater relevance will be chosen for their presentation in oral format.

11. Once the evaluation of the abstract is finished, the confirmation of acceptance will be sent to the established mail. We suggest checking your spam folder from October 15th, 2022. If you do not receive a response, you can communicate electronically to the email: infocus2022mex@gmail.com.

12. In the acceptance email, it will be specified if the presentation of the abstract will be in poster or oral format, the day of participation, and additional instructions that apply.

13. For the presentation of the abstract there will be a space of 1.30 meters high by 90 cm wide.

14. Prizes will be awarded to the 1st place of each category, which includes the registration fee for INFOCUS 2023 and a diploma. The 2nd and 3rd place will receive a diploma. Studies presented in oral format will be evaluated as a poster for competition.

15. Points not covered in this call will be resolved by the INFOCUS Evaluation Committee.